

We help businesses profit from better cleaning

SoClean

We clean. You profit. It's that simple.

Since 1994, we've seen the positive effects cleaning can have on businesses, first hand. Clients benefit financially, staff take pride in their workplace and customers leave with smiles bigger than when they arrived.

These observations have helped form our core philosophy at So Clean: that cleaning should be a revenue generator for business, not just a cost.

As such, we've polished every aspect of our service to maximise the positive effects of cleaning for business. From ensuring your company leaves a fresh, professional impression on your customers and clients, all the way through to boosting productivity, we vow to clean deeper into your business than anyone else.

“A professional and affordable service that you can rely on.”

The benefits of a cleaner image are clear.

The average person makes 11 major decisions about someone within the first 7 seconds of meeting them[†]. The same goes for when people first enter your premises. Opinions are formed about your company, its products and its people. And when you consider that cleanliness is often one of the highest ranked factors affecting business, its importance begins to shine through.

At So Clean, we understand how the small things can have a big impact, so we go to levels other cleaning companies don't to ensure the impact is positive. As part of our daily cleaning, our highly-trained staff will complete all the usual services at the quality you'd expect, but will also go to extra lengths to regularly spot clean, wash down walls and skirting boards, wipe over doors, plus anything else you require.

So whether they're customers, clients or employees, you can be sure that the impression your company makes on them is spotless.

“So Clean provide a fresh approach to cleaning with an unrivalled level of service. Their attention to detail and professional attitude match our brand standard of a 5-star hotel.”

*Daniel Ozzán,
Intercontinental London Park Lane*

The more effective your cleaner, the more productive your business.

Studies have proven that more effective cleaning can increase a company's productivity*. It's a powerful fact and the reason why one of the most important cleaning tools we invest in is computer technology. With our mobile monitoring system, all onsite checks are completed using our highly effective Clean Control App, and the data is immediately sent to our Headquarters. This efficiency helps ensure deadlines are always met, standards are always high and your premises are always ready for business.

Cleaner facilities mean a healthier workforce. And that means a healthier bottom line.

The average company has around 7.7 sick days per employee per year, during which productivity can drop drastically*. Yet whereas most businesses simply accept sick days as an uncontrollable cost, at So Clean we know differently. We specialise in detailed deep cleaning that many others overlook. Our rigorous and in-depth checklist highlights high-risk areas for spreading illnesses and uses the most advanced techniques to eradicate bacteria and viruses, atmospheric pollutants and pests. So the next time a virus like Swine Flu occurs, your company has less chance of suffering too.

“So Clean have delivered in all areas, raising and maintaining standards at our headquarters, where they provide a vital cleaning service 365 days of the year.”

Russ Hickman, Diversey

Wear and tear is inevitable. But with a little bit of science, we can slow it down.

Dust, dirt and grime don't just look bad, they actively damage surfaces and furnishings – speeding up their natural deterioration. At So Clean we believe that, just as dirt can accelerate wear and tear, cleaning can actively slow it down. That's why we offer a broad range of standard and specialist cleaning services to cover all areas of your building.

Like our Dry Fusion carpet cleaning, which is part of our standard service. This patented system hot cleans, deodorises, stain protects and then heat dries every type of carpet. And then there's our state-of-the-art Reach and Wash service, which allows us to access and clean heights of up to 50 feet from the ground, using carbon fibre telescopic poles and 100% pure laboratory graded water.

Our extensive and periodic cleaning can help protect everything from your IT equipment to the building's infrastructure. And the result? Fewer bills for replacing surfaces and furnishings, and fewer awkward conversations with your FD.

A cleaner business makes for happier employees. And we all know what that makes.

It's a simple equation: happier employees create happier customers, in turn creating a happier business. It's why investing in staff development, skills and training is so important to us, so we can ensure our employees give you high quality cleaning, every time.

With our So Clean Training Academy, which is bespoke to each client, staff will complete BICS 1 and 2 qualifications, followed by daily assessment and recognition. That way, our valued workforce continues to maintain the highest standards of cleanliness in your building – helping to keep your employees happy too. And when they smile, so will your bottom line.

Now we've taken you through our philosophy, turn over to take a look at our range of services that will help your business profit from better cleaning.
